

One thing I love about Leicester...

...is The Tigers. There's a great deal of synergy between the rugby and cricket teams, we work pretty closely together at club and charity functions and all the lads get on well. In professional sport there's nothing more pure than one-on-one battles in a team environment and here at The Tigers you're guaranteed to see that kind of commitment and enthusiasm every time they step on this pitch, that's inspiring to me and the reason I've been coming here for the last twenty years.
